Program

The National Conference of

Amyloidosis

Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased and honored to welcome you to the 2025 National Amyloidosis Conference, an event dedicated to promoting excellence in the research and treatment of this complex condition.

Amyloidosis, a rare and challenging disease to diagnose, remains a significant concern for medical professionals. Through this conference, we aim to create a forum for discussion, learning, and interdisciplinary collaboration, with the goal of advancing knowledge and best practices in the field.

The conference program features presentations by renowned national and international experts, interactive sessions, and debates on current topics—all designed to support the medical community in the more effective diagnosis and treatment of patients affected by this disease.

We thank you for choosing to join us at the National Amyloidosis Conference to share knowledge, experiences, and innovations, and to collectively contribute to the progress in understanding and managing amyloidosis.

With highest regards,

Daniel Coriu MD, PhD
